Further details regarding the registration are available via ico.org.uk

The College needs to keep certain information about employees, learners and other users to allow it to monitor performance, achievements, and health and safety, for example. It is also necessary to process information so that staff can be recruited and paid, courses organised and legal obligations to funding bodies and government complied with. To comply with the law, information must be used fairly, stored safely and not disclosed to any other person unlawfully. To do this, the College must comply with the Data Protection Principles which are set out in the Data Protection Act 2018.

This policy does not form part of any employee's contract of employment and it may be amended at any time.

2. The Types of Information Covered by Data Protection Legislation

Personal Data

Data Protection legislation applies to personal information relating to a living person. It applies not only to computerised or automated personal data, but also to information held in manual filing systems. Included are such items of information as name, date of birth, contact details, title and gender, but also less obviously personal data such as IP addresses, online identifiers and pseudonyms.

The legislation also applies to any records where an individual can be directly or indirectly identified from the information present, even where the name is not included.

Sensitive Personal Data

Also known as Special Category Data, this is the subset of Personal Data where the data items are especially sensitive and need a greater level of protection. These include ethnic origin, health data, religion, sexual orientation, and biometric information.

3. The College's Responsibilities

Under the Data Protection Act and the GDPR, the data protection principles set out the main responsibilities for the College. These require that data shall be:

- a) processed lawfully, fairly and in a transparent manner
- b) collected for specified, explicit and legitimate purposes and processed in an appropriate way
- c) adequate, relevant and limited to what is necessary in relation to the purposes for which they are processed
- d) accurate and, where necessary, kept up to date
- e) kept in a form which permits identification of data subjects for no longer than is necessary for the purposes for which the personal data are processed
- f) processed in a manner that ensures appropriate security of the personal data, including protection against unauthorised or unlawful processing

The College must have a lawful basis for processing any personal information and must make this clear in the privacy notice.

"Personal data" means recorded information we hold about you from which you can be identified. It may include contact details, other personal information, photographs, expressions of opinion about you or indications as to our intentions about you.

"Processing" means doing anything with the data, such as storing, accessing, disclosing, destroying or using the data in any way.

4. The Data Controller and the Designated Data Officers

The College as a body corporate is the Data Controller under the Act and the Board of Governors is therefore ultimately responsible for compliance with the statutory legislative requirements. The Principal takes this overall responsibility for compliance and delegates the overseeing of the implementation, giving advice and dealing with the subject access requests to the Data Protection Officer. There are also designated Data Officers throughout the College who deal with data on a day-to-day basis relating primarily to learner data and staff data matters.

The majority of subject access requests will be dealt with through individual Data Officers.

The MIS Manager, Head of Student Support and Student Administration Manager are Data Officers for data issues relating to the learners.

The Human Resources Manager is the Data Officer for all data issues relating to staff.

The Director of Information and Funding is the Data Protection Officer.

5. Fair and Lawful Processing

We will usually only process your personal data where the processing is necessary to comply with our legal obligations, for the protection of your vital interests, for our legitimate interests or the legitimate interests of others. The full list of conditions is set out in the GDPR.

We will only process "special categories of data" about ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or similar beliefs, trade union membership, health, sex life, criminal proceedings or convictions, genetic data and data about sexual orientation where a further condition is also met. Usually this will mean that you have given your explicit consent, or that the processing is legally required for employment purposes. The full list of conditions is set out in the GDPR.

6. How We Are Likely to Use Your Personal Data

We will process data about staff for legal, personnel, administrative and management purposes and to enable us to meet our legal obligations as an employer, for example to pay you, monitor your performance and to confer benefits in connection with your employment.

We may process special categories of data relating to staff including, as appropriate:

- (a) information about an employee's physical or mental health or condition in order to monitor sick leave and take decisions as to the employee's fitness for work;
- (b) the employee's gender, sexual orientation, racial or ethnic origin or religious or similar information in order to monitor compliance with equal opportunities legislation;
- (c) in order to comply with legal requirements and obligations to third parties.

7. Processing for Limited Purposes

The College will only process your personal data for the specific purpose or purposes notified to the individual or for any other purposes specifically permitted by the GDPR.

8. Adequate, Relevant and Non-Excessive Processing

Individuals' personal data will only be processed to the extent that it is necessary for the specific purposes notified to them.

9. Accurate Data

The College will keep the personal data it stores about individuals accurate and up to date. Data that is inaccurate or out of date will be destroyed. Please notify the College if any personal details change or if someone becomes aware of any inaccuracies in the personal data the College holds about them.

10. Data retention

The College will not keep individuals' personal data for longer than is necessary for the purpose. This means that data will be destroyed or erased from its systems when it is no longer required.

11. The Rights of Individuals Whose Data is Processed by the College

a. The right to be informed

The College is obliged to provide fair processing information and does so through its privacy notices.

b. The right of access

Individuals have the right to access their personal data, and this access will be provided as quickly as possible – we are legally bound to provide the data within one calendar month. This data will usually be provided free of charge, with the only exceptions being where the request is found to be unfounded, excessive or repetitive. See Section 11 for details on how to access data.

c. The right to rectification

Individuals are entitled to have personal data rectified if it is inaccurate or incomplete.

d. The right to erasure

An individual is entitled to request the deletion or removal of personal data where there is no compelling reason for its continued processing. It should be noted that the College is legally obliged to process and retain much of the personal information it holds.

e. The right to restrict processing

Individuals have the right to restrict the College from processing certain aspects of their personal data if one of the following circumstances applies:

- The accuracy of the data is contested
- The individual objects to the processing of the data in principle
- The College's processing of the data is unlawful
- The College wishes to delete the data, but the individual has need of the data for legal purposes

f. The right to data portability

Individuals may request an electronic copy of their personal data to use for their own purposes. The College will make every effort to provide the data in a form that is useable and acceptable to the individual, and this will be done without charge.

g. The right to object

Individuals have the right to object to:

- Direct marketing – the College will stop processing for this purpose on receipt of an objection.
- Data processing for research or statistics – the College will engage with the individual to come to an agreement within the law.
- Data processing in the College’s legitimate interests - the College will engage with the individual to come to an agreement within the law.

h. Rights in relation to automated decision making and profiling

Individuals who have any concerns about automated or computerised decision making should refer them to the Data Controller.

12. Responsibilities of Staff

- To ensure that any information that they provide to the College in connection with their employment is accurate and up to date.
- To inform the College of any change to information which they have provided.
- To check the information that the college will send out from time to time, giving details of information kept and processed about staff, and change any information that is incorrect or incomplete.
- To comply with the guidelines for data collection and processing when, as part of their responsibilities, they collect information about other people (for example learners’ course work, opinions about ability, references to other academic institutions, or details of personal circumstances).

13. Responsibilities of Learners

- To ensure that all personal data provided to the College is accurate and up-to-date.
- To ensure that changes of address, next of kin etc. are notified to the College, preferably via the Learner Portal, but alternatively via Student Admin and/or their Course Tutor.
- To ensure that they keep their passwords to College networks and systems secret and secure.
- To report to the College’s IT Services team if they suspect their account security has been breached.

14. Data Security

The College will ensure that appropriate measures are taken against unlawful or unauthorised processing of personal data, and against the accidental loss of, or damage to, personal data.

The College has in place procedures and technologies to maintain the security of all personal data from the point of collection to the point of destruction. The College will only transfer personal data to a third party if he agrees to comply with those procedures and policies, or if he puts in place adequate measures himself.

Maintaining data security means guaranteeing the confidentiality, integrity and availability (for authorised purposes) of the personal data.

In order to ensure the security of personal information, IT Services will:

- maintain a high level of security guarding the College's network and systems as detailed in the College's IT Policy
- enforce a minimum of 128-bit encryption on portable devices
- prevent users from storing data on local drives of non-portable IT hardware
- require a change of network password for staff every 90 days
- wipe hard drives and memory of all equipment before disposal

In order to ensure the security of personal information, staff are required to:

- lock their IT device using -L or [Ctrl]-[Alt]-[Delete], then [Enter] when leaving their PC/Surface/Laptop unattended
- keep their passwords secret
- avoid opening emails on a projected screen – private information may be displayed to anyone else in the room or even outside via the window
- when emailing personal data, password protect in an attachment and phone the password through to a trusted number
- refer all requests for disclosure of personal data from external sources to be dealt with via the central register
- contact the Director of Information and Funding if in doubt about any data security matter
- only use College approved cloud-based repositories (OneDrive for Business and SharePoint Online, accessed via their College email address)
- check the email addresses of intended recipients before sending any email, as email programs often incorrectly predict email addresses you are typing in
- consider using BCC to restrict visibility of other recipients' addresses when emailing to a group of recipients (especially where there are large numbers of recipients or some external addresses).

Where the College process data on behalf of other organisations, e.g. conducting external DBS checks, it will comply to ICO requirements.

15. Breaches of Data Protection Principles

If an individual considers that the data protection principles have not been followed in respect of personal data about themselves or others, they should raise the matter with their line manager. Any breach of the GDPR will be taken seriously and may result in disciplinary action.

16. Loss or Theft of Personal Information

All incidences of loss or theft of personal information must be reported immediately to the College's Data Controller (the Director of Information and Funding). A data or IT security incident relating to breaches of security and/or confidentiality could range from computer users sharing passwords, to the loss or theft of personal information either inside or outside the College.

A security incident is any event that has resulted or could result in:

- The disclosure of personal/sensitive/confidential information to any unauthorised person.
- The integrity of the system or data being put at risk.
- Threat to personal safety or privacy.
- Legal obligation or penalty.

All incidents must be reported to the Data Controller in the first instance, as soon as possible after the event.

In the case of a potential breach, the Potential Data Breach Procedure will be followed. The Data Controller will instigate an investigation into the incident and will decide whether it needs to be reported to any regulatory bodies, in particular the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO). If a breach has occurred, the ICO will be informed within 72 hours of the incident, and if appropriate all data subjects concerned will also be contacted and informed. If possible, the offending paperwork, data or communication will be retrieved as soon as possible. The Data Controller will retain a central register of all such incidents occurring within the College, whether or not they resulted in a breach.

The following is a list of examples of breaches of security and breaches of confidentiality. It is neither exclusive nor exhaustive and should be used as a guide only. If there is any doubt as to what constitutes an incident, you should consult the Data Controller who will decide what action should be taken.

Examples of a breach of confidentiality:

- Finding confidential/personal information either in hard copy or on a portable media device outside College premises or in any of the College's unsecured common areas.
- Finding any records about a staff member, student, or applicant in any location outside the College's premises.
- Passing information to unauthorised people either verbally, in writing or electronically.
- Unauthorised individuals gaining access to the College's IT systems, particularly the Student Records systems (ProSolution / ProMonitor) or the Human Resources system (Chris21).

17. Subject Consent

In many cases, the College can only process personal data with the consent of the Individual. In some cases, if the data is sensitive, express consent must be obtained. Agreement to the College processing some specified classes of personal data is a condition of acceptance of a learner onto any course, and a condition of employment for staff. This includes information about previous unspent criminal convictions (all convictions in the case of staff).

Therefore, all prospective staff and learners will be asked to sign a Consent to Process form, regarding particular types of information when an offer of employment or a course place is made. A refusal to sign such a form can result in the offer being withdrawn.

18. Requesting Access to Personal Data

In order to request access to your personal data (commonly known as a Subject Access Request), as held by the College, it is preferable that you submit a request by email to the Data Protection Officer (data.protection@sparsholt.ac.uk). However, requests can be made to any member of staff, electronically, in writing or verbally, on the basis that they will be passed to the Data Protection Officer.

The College undertakes to respond as quickly as possible to subject access requests and, at the latest, within one calendar month of receipt of the request (the statutory maximum time allowed). Data disclosures will be undertaken free of charge in almost every case (repeat requests may possibly incur a charge at the discretion of the College).

19. Accountability

The Data Protection Officer will produce an annual report on data protection activities for presentation to the College's Senior Leadership Team and Board of Governors. This report will include detail of the following:

- Data Protection Disclosure Requests
- Suspected data breaches
- Requests to be forgotten
- Staff data protection training

20. Conclusion

Compliance with the Data Protection Act 2018 is the responsibility of all members of the College. Any deliberate breach of the Data Protection Policy may lead to disciplinary action being taken, or access to College facilities being withdrawn, or even a criminal prosecution. Any questions or concerns about the interpretation or operation of the policy should be taken up with the Data Protection Officer.
